W. T. Little of the land appraiser of the government was a pleasant caller this morning. Mr. Little and corps are now located east of this place. They began work at the Kiowa line and go east. The corps is made up in five gangs, each gang taking 6 miles square, going east. As this section is classified the corps move south six miles again.

This party are known as appraisers, but are really classifiers. They go onto every township and section and in case of broken land onto every 40 acres. They place each tract under its proper heading as A, B, C, etc., and so on for 9 or 10 grades. These grades will have a price placed upon each tract, and the lands will be allotted according to its value. Hence the Indian can take a large body of poor land or a small body of good land.

Mr. Little informed us that the land this far south and east to the east line had been appraised and with the west section they are now on complete will finish this appraisal, except a corner from Ardmore south and east. It will take three months or more to finish the work.

Mr. Little is an old newspaper man and like we all is genial as a basket of chips and likes to flock with birds of a feather, hence he visits the print shops. In fact all the government officials on this land and townsie business are nice gentlemen.

Wanted to "lick the spoon."

Indianapolis Ind. Nov. 16 '99.

Pepsin Syrup Co.,

Dear sir:—We have been keeping house for five years and are never without Dr. Caldwell's pepsin Syrup. We find nothing to equal it for stomach troubles and my children like as well as candy. One night recently my wife was giving a dose to our baby and Nelda (our little girl 4 years old) cried for some too. Her mamma told her she didn't need it and then she said: "Can't I lick the spoon?" It is so pleasant to take the effects are so good we hate to be without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Yours truly,

THE SURFEIT CURE.

Mr. Bozzie Thinks That for the Ice Cream Habit It Is a Delusion.

"When I was a youngster," said Mr. Bozzie, "I used to wonder how the confectioners could make money. It always seemed to me that the clerks would eat so much candy that they would eat up all the profits. I remember reading or hearing later that this was not so; that when a new clerk came into the store the proprietor would say: 'Now, I hope you will eat all the candies you want; don't hesitate to help yourself at any time; and that the result of this was that at the end of a week she was so sick and tired of candy that she hated the sight of it, and didn't want any more for a year. This, I suppose, might be called a surfeit cure."

"After I had grown up and come to have a family, I remembered this and thought I might turn the idea to advantage. I had four children, and the amount of money they spent for ice cream and candy and soda water was something awful. I thought that by spending in a lump enough money to make them tired of those things I might in the long run make a considerable saving. So I set aside one thousand dollars for that purpose, and one day I said to my oldest child:

"'Tillie, I don't believe you and the children are beginning to have the ice cream and candy you ought to have. I am afraid you think because papa isn't very rich that you must skip yourselves about these things, but you needn't; you can have all the money you want for them. Here's fifty dollars. Now, I wish you'd take the children out and get some ice cream and candy, and whenever that money is gone, just let me know, and I'll give you more."

"Well, they used up that thousand dollars in about ten weeks, and at the end of that time they were as hungry for ice cream and candy as ever. I kept up the supply of money. I was like a gambler, who keeps on playing after he has lost a lot, in the hope that his luck might turn. I thought they might reach the surfeiting point at any minute, and it seemed too bad to make a dead loss of the money already invested, when, perhaps, the expenditure of a few dollars more would accomplish the desired results; so I have kept on. But the children's appetite for ice cream and candy seems actually to increase. They tell me I am so good; and that, of course, is something. I like to see them happy; but, meanwhile, my hard-earned money is melting away, and I am inclined to think that the surfeit cure is a delusion, if not a snare."—N. Y. Sun.
